2. Reason for revision

For the second quarter (interim period) of the fiscal year ending March 2025, profit at each level exceeded the previous earnings forecast announced on August 13, 2024. The third quarter also saw a steady performance. In light of these circumstances, the Company has thoroughly reviewed the full-year earnings forecast and has revised it as shown above.

Regarding business profit, the Company is making an upward revision due to improved profit margins resulting from various measures, including cost review and the reflection of increased personnel costs in selling prices.
